

Summer Assignments

Please pray for our seminarians as they continue their priestly formation throughout the summer while serving their home dioceses in various capacities. Here's a look at how they are making an impact in their local communities and beyond:

Steven Chabarria

Diocese of Tyler

Steven is assigned to St. John the Evangelist Parish in Emory, TX. His duties are varied, but they are all aimed at getting to know the ins-and-outs of parish life. He assists at the liturgies, visits parishioners in their homes and nursing homes, attends most parish meetings, helps out with the youth and young adult groups, and helps with parish maintenance. This photo of Steven was taken in front of St. John's new sanctuary, which was recently rebuilt after it was destroyed by a tornado on April 29, 2017.

Andrew Hendershott

Diocese of Knoxville

Andrew is assisting at his home parish, St. John Neumann Catholic Church, this summer. He will also be attending a month-long Spanish immersion program at the Southeast Pastoral Institute (SEPI) in Miami, Florida. He looks forward to learning about the Spanish language and culture to help him in his ministry.

Brock Jameson

Diocese of Wichita

Brock is spending his summer as a missionary in a youth catechesis program known as Totus Tuus. Each week, Brock and his teammates go to a different parish in the Diocese of Wichita and conduct a catechetical program for children in grades 1 - 6 along with a ministry program for young adults in grades 7 - 12. [Brock is top left in the photo.]

Andrew Darling, Scott Johnson and Bryce Baumann

Diocese of Dallas

Andrew, Scott and Bryce (left to right in the photo) are in Antigua, Guatemala in a Spanish immersion program. Shortly after arriving, they participated in a three-hour long procession with the Blessed Sacrament led by Archbishop Nicolas Thevenin, Apostolic Nuncio to Guatemala. Later this summer, they will be ministering to those affected by the volcano eruption.

Welcome Baskets The Trinitarian Auxiliary raises funds annually to benefit the seminarians discerning their vocations at Holy Trinity Seminary. Each fall they distribute welcome baskets to the seminarians that include items such as school supplies, note cards, snacks, postage stamps, etc. These baskets help the seminarians feel the prayerful support of the community as they enter seminary.
